CHECK OUT THIS NEW CHAINMARK CHAIN! There will also be a three-day seminar on Friday, June 24-26 which is open to all students and faculty. The seminar will be conducted by Professor Andrew Vaz and will provide a hands-on workshop that will outline topics in Computer Science including programming patterns, how to write simple programs, what makes a good program, how to write complex programs, programming tools, debugging, and the latest in technology. The goal of the seminar and the workshop is to promote the use of programming tools in computer systems and in education programs. This seminar will explore the basics of learning how to write programs and what to look for in a program as well as how to use such a program to meet educational objectives. He concluded that, when it worked, Russian intelligence was "highly sophisticated".. "The Trump campaign had been in contact with foreign leaders – including the Russians – in an effort to encourage Russian-speaking voters and swing the American voting process in his favor. That effort did not affect the election results in any way" it said.. * A former intelligence operative close to the Hillary Clinton campaign claimed that in August of 2016 Vladimir Putin ordered the release by WikiLeaks of thousands of Democratic Party emails. That's according to the source of a New York Times report, James Clapper, chairman of the US national intelligence council and another former deputy director of the CIA.
